Chapters Health System Receives Award from Foundry's CSO

Health System to be Recognized Among Honorees at CSO Conference and Awards

TAMPA, FL (June 20, 2024) – Chapters Health System, the nation's largest, not-for-profit advanced illness and hospice care organization, announced it was named a winner of a 2024 CSO Award from Foundry's CSO. This prestigious honor is bestowed upon a select group of organizations that use information security projects in innovative ways while demonstrating outstanding business value and thought leadership. Chapters Health will accept its award at the CSO Conference & Awards to be held Monday to Wednesday, October 21-23, 2024 at the We-Ko-Pa Resort & Casino in Fort McDowell, AZ.

"It is a thrill to receive this recognition from an organization as reputable as CSO," said Mike Parkin, director of IT security and CISO, Chapters Health. "It's a reflection of the great care and thoroughness that can be found in the Enterprise Technology and Services team at Chapters Health. It's their attentiveness and professionalism that has allowed our organization to become a preeminent example for information security."

"The stakes grow higher every day for security leaders and their teams, and this year's CSO Awards honor the very best efforts to tackle challenges from an expanding threat landscape," said Beth Kormanik, content director for the CSO Conference & Awards.

"From devising new threat detection methods and cyber analytics to initiatives addressing AI threats, zero trust, and data protection, these projects are at the forefront of innovative security thinking and represent true business value for their organizations," said Kormanik. "We congratulate the winners and look forward to celebrating them at the CSO Conference & Awards this fall."
